

Chris Heunis

- Outeniqua High School u/18 (1986-1987), High School Located in George South Africa
- University of Stellenbosch Junior Level (1988-1989) & Senior Level (1990-1991), University located in Stellenbosch South Africa, Largest rugby club in the world
- Malmesbury Mens Club (South Africa) and Rhodes University Rugby Club 1992-1995 located in South Africa
- University of Stellenbosch Medical School (1998 as a player-coach)
- Forward-Coach of the Wanderers Rugby Club Namibia (2004) Coaching Courses
- Currently coaching at High School level in Namibia
- Chris Heunis completed the Jake White and Eddie Jones level one, two and junior coaching courses in 2009 and 2010. Bios below

Jake White Bio

Jake White is a rugby union coach and former coach of the South Africa national rugby union team, the Springboks. His most notable achievements as coach include leading the Springboks to victory in 2007 Rugby World Cup and the 2004 Tri Nations title. White also coached the U-21 Springbok side to victory in the U-21 Rugby Union World Cup in 2002.

Eddie Jones Bio

Eddie Jones coached the ACT Brumbies to their first ever Super 12 title in 2001 and was subsequently appointed as head coach of the Australian national rugby union team, the Wallabies. He took Australia to the final of the 2003 Rugby World Cup falling one match short losing to England in the final match.

In 2007, Jake White appointed Jones to be the technical adviser of the Springboks for the Rugby World Cup in France. Jones was credited as the brain behind the success of the South African Springboks side, which he helped lead to a 2007 World Cup Victory in France. Jones was an official part of the Springbok coaching team, but because he is not South African, he was not offered an official Springbok Rugby Blazer, instead Jones wore his tracksuit, which was a condition in his contract with SA Rugby prior to being appointed.

Since the World Cup Jones has been appointed as coaching director of Saracens F.C. in England and as an advisor to Suntory Sungoliath in Japan